

Chance The Rapper Reschedules Houston Date Rescheduled For January 26th, 2020

All Tickets From The Original October 23rd Date Will Be Honored

CHANCE THE RAPPER

HOUSTON, TX (Sept 09, 2019) – Due to the birth of his daughter and recent marriage, Chance the Rapper has postponed his October 23rd Houston show to January 26, 2020. All tickets from the original date will be honored. Special guests for the new date will be announced soon.

Chance posted the following message out to his fans on Instagram this afternoon: “I thought it over for the past week and I’ve decided to push back my tour. This year has been one of the greatest of my life; Marriage, new baby, first album etc. But with it being so eventful it has also been very strenuous having to divide my time and energy between family and work. When Kensli was born, I went on tour 2 weeks later and missed some of the most important milestones in her life, but more importantly I was absent when her mother needed me the most. At this point as a husband and father of two I realize that I can’t make that mistake again. I need to be as helpful and available as possible to my wife in these early months of raising Kensli and Marli. I apologize because I know how many people were counting on seeing me soon, but I hope you’ll understand and forgive me in time. Tour kicks off Jan. 15th and you can still get tix or your refund if you are unavailable at chanceraps.com.”

“We congratulate Chance on the birth of his daughter and support him while he takes time to be with his family. We are thrilled to welcome him back on the road in 2020,” said Live Nation.
